U. S. Urges Space Missile Talks

Initial U. S. Sighting Made Of Russia Earth Satellite

New Haven Group Gets First Look

Likened To Star By Moonwatchers; Stays
Right On Schedule

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U)—Satellite Sputnik was spotted in the United States for the first time today when a moonwatch team atop the New Haven State Teachers College building sighted it.

"It looked like a star moving across the heavens," said James Plato, a Southern New England Telephone Co. equipment engineer who has been interested in astronomy for 20 years.

The historic sighting occurred at 5:23 a.m. EST.

"It could not have been seen with the naked eye, but appeared to be about as bright as a third magnitude star," Plato said. "It was in our field of vision for 30 or 40 seconds. It seemed to be moving slowly."

Use Field Telescope

They used a 5.5 power wide field telescope to sight the satellite in the northwest part of the sky at an altitude of approximately 40 degrees from the horizon, or nearly halfway between the horizon and the zenith.

Plato carefully refrained from saying he had seen the satellite until his observation was confirmed by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory at Cambridge Mass., some hours later.

As Plato saw the satellite in the early morning skies, he pointed it out to Dr. Robert U. Brown, head of the New Haven moonwatch team and professor of science at the college.

Both Brown and Plato described the satellite as a small, bright object which had some perceptible movement but did not appear to be moving fast.

Stays On Schedule

WASHINGTON (U)—Sputnik stayed right on schedule today, completely oblivious to dire predictions by earthbound experts of changing orbits, weakening signals and possibly a sudden fiery death.

Scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory here said the Russian satellite is still holding to its original orbit and speed which carries it around the world every 96.1 minutes.

The laboratory's tracking station at Blossom Point, Md., reported that it intercepted strong and clear radio signals from Sputnik this morning, starting at 6:48 a.m. EST and lasting until 7:01 a.m. EST.

Martin-Lewis 'Feud' At End

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis have "kissed and made up" after more than a year of feuding and fighting.

Jerry, who has not been seen or spoken to Dean in 14 months, broke the ice when he telephoned Martin to wish him luck on his Saturday night television show.

"I just called to wish him the best," Jerry said. "It wasn't the easiest thing in the world, but I can't forget the 10 wonderful years we spent together."

Dean, understandably jittery, over starting in his first hour-long TV variety show, said: "It was good to talk to Jerry again. It was wonderful of him to call."

Wearever Suit Expected In Wardrobes Of Future

PRINCETON, N.J. (U)—The suit the basics of the clothing that won't wear out may be one of the fantastic items in the wardrobe of the future.

Here are some other items: Shirts and coats that won't catch fire; wrinkleproof trousers; dresses; new color-fast fabrics; drapes and curtains that won't fade in the sunlight; carpets that don't give you shocks.

If and when these developments come, it's a good bet many may trace back to a converted stone mansion on the shores of Lake Carnegie here—headquarters of the Textile Research Institute.

At the institute 60 full-time scientists and a dozen Princeton University graduate students go to REFUSES BLOOD TRANSFUSION—Mrs. Elizabeth Denno, 43, is shown in Hale Hospital, Haverhill, Mass., where doctors say she will die of a bleeding stomach ulcer unless she receives blood transfusions. She says her beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness forbid "feeding on the blood" of a fellow man and has refused. Her husband, Gardner, 45, not a member of the sect, said he would ask doctors to give her blood if she becomes unconscious and unable to halt treatment. Local courts have ruled to give the woman blood transfusions against her will constitutes a technical assault.

Swedish King Seeks Relief

SAN GIOVENALE DE BLERA, Italy (U)—Sweden's King Gustaf is spending part of his vacation on his hands and knees, digging here on the site of an ancient Etruscan cemetery 50 miles north of Rome.

The 75-year-old monarch, an archaeology buff, arrived last week to spend a month with a party from the Swedish Institute in Rome. They are trying to find relics of the Etruscan and other pre-Roman civilizations.

Wife Of Bank Robber Also Pleads Guilty

MINNEAPOLIS (U)—The 20-year-old wife of a convicted bank robber pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court yesterday to a charge of concealing a felony in connection with the holdup of a Baltimore bank.

The plea was entered by blonde Mrs. Dorothy Barchard of Boston, whose husband is in Alcatraz Prison.

U. S. District Atty. George E. Mackinnon told Judge Edward J. Devitt he will seek dismissal of four other charges against the woman. These include possession of stolen money, harboring and concealing a fugitive, and being an accessory after the fact in two bank robberies in Baltimore and Taunton, Mass.

Mrs. Barchard, mother of a 2-year-old daughter, was arrested in a Minneapolis apartment last January with Louis R. Arquilla, 26, and Martin F. Feeney, 41, also of Boston. The two men are serving 25-year prison terms for the Nov. 21 holdup of the Freedom branch of the Fidelity Baltimore National Bank.

200,000 Turks Stricken By Flu

ISTANBUL (U)—Asian flu has stricken 200,000 persons in Turkey, medical authorities reported today.

Several of Istanbul's largest schools were closed by the disease. Officials had no reports of any deaths.

Cases Of Flu In U. S. Pass Million Mark

350,000 New Cases
As Of Oct. 4, Public Health Service Notes

WASHINGTON (U)—The Public Health Service today reported 350,000 new cases of Asian flu, bringing the nation's total to 1,077,000 as of Oct. 4. The Health Service said that reports of flu and flu-like diseases followed the same pattern as in the previous three or four weeks, with increases in many areas across the nation.

Most of last week's 350,000 cases were reported in schools, colleges, institutions and other closed groups, the service said in its weekly summary of the flu situation.

Outbreaks in Schools

The report said that new outbreaks in schools increased in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Kansas.

Up to the present time, the Health Service said, only a few states have reported epidemics in their general populations. Widespread outbreaks have occurred in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arizona and in New York City, while localized epidemics have been reported in Utah, Wyoming, California, Texas, South Carolina and Florida.

Widespread Infection

The Health Service said that the volume of laboratory reports confirming the virus "indicates widespread infection by the Asian strain throughout the country."

However, it said death tolls in 114 cities across the country "have been somewhat above the median since the first of September but not over 10 per cent in any one week."

Winds Fan Bush Blazes; Threaten Sydney Suburbs

SYDNEY, Australia (U)—Fanned by gale winds, hundreds of bush fires menaced Sydney suburbs today. Hard-pressed firemen brought most under control by nightfall.

Sydney's fire chief called it "the worst day of fires in the city's history."

A 4-year-old girl was burned to death in a house in Redfern suburb, and 12 homes were destroyed in another area. Two homes burned in nearby Waterfall before volunteers put out the blazes ringing the town.

A state of emergency was declared through the state of New South Wales. At one point Sydney—Australia's largest city—had no firemen left to answer calls. All were fighting outbreaks.

A train carrying 30,000 gallons of gasoline ran a fiery gauntlet to reach nearby Lithgow with two cars blazing. Most suburban train routes were blocked.

Stock Market Lower

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market settled at lower levels in quiet early trading today.

Two Testify In Accused GI Defense

Prosecution Ends
Case Against Girard
In Japanese Court

MAEBASHI, Japan (U)—The defense of GI William S. Girard opened today with testimony from two of his officers on the firing range where he shot Mrs. Naka Sakai fatally on Jan. 30.

One of the officers said he told the Illinois soldier to guard a machinegun and the other officer said a few hours before the shooting a Japanese collecting scrap brass had to be driven away from the gun.

Girard admits firing the empty cartridge from a grenade launcher on his M1 rifle that killed Mrs. Sakai. But he contends he was performing his duty, was trying to scare her away and hit her by accident.

Told To Guard Gun

Lt. Billy Mohon, 25, of Comyn, Tex., said he told Girard and another specialist 3rd class, Victor Nickel, to guard the machinegun about 5 or 10 minutes before the woman scavenger was killed.

Nickel testified earlier as a prosecution witness that there was no danger that the Japanese would approach the machinegun. But Lt. William A. Gigante, 25, of Detroit said about 150 shell pickers swarmed over the machinegun earlier, knocking the gunner from it and raising the possibility it might fire accidentally.

Gigante also testified that Lt. Col. Walter C. Sharp Jr. of Beech Haven, N. J., had lectured the men before the practice and told them it was necessary to keep the brass scavengers away from the exercise.

Safety Officer

Mohon, commander of Girard's platoon, said he was acting as safety officer following the troops. He testified he saw no one fire empty cartridge casings toward the shell gatherers prior to the fatal shooting. Previous prosecution witnesses claimed Girard fired at four other Japanese before he shot Mrs. Sakai.

The final prosecution witness was Akikichi Sakai, former husband of the dead woman. Sakai said, "Time after time I warned her not to go where it was dangerous."

He said his wife made about $139 a year for the family by cultivating silk worms and only picked brass when she had time from the farm work.

"Like any woman, she wanted to make pocket money," Sakai said.

Ghana Given U. S. Apology

ACCRA, Ghana (U)—The Foreign Ministry announced today it has accepted a U. S. government apology for a color-bar incident involving a Ghana Cabinet minister visiting America.

K. A. Gbedemah, minister of finance who had been attending the World Bank meeting, was turned out of a restaurant in Dover, Del., Monday because of his color.

"We were very much worried when we first heard of the incident, but became relieved when President Eisenhower invited Mr. Gbedemah to breakfast," a ministry statement said.

A spokesman added: "I think the whole affair is now forgotten."

In Past Two Years Folsom Reports Polio Drop By 80 Per Cent

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON (U)—Secretary of Health Folsom today reported a dramatic 80 per cent reduction in Salk vaccine, and 5,241 cases up over the past two years.

A sharp decline was noted also in the less severe nonparalytic cases. Folsom said the success of Salk vaccine provides the means for "a knockout blow" to the disease next year if the millions of Americans under 40 who still have not done so will get the full three recommended doses.

He spoke out in a statement launching a new program to encourage use of the vaccine. He reported that the number of paralytic polio cases this year up

AFTER WHITE HOUSE BREAKFAST—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon join Ghana's Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah in a laugh at the White House door this morning after breakfast. Seasonal Dip In Jobholder Totals Noted

Employment Drops
700,000; Over Two Million Hunt Jobs

WASHINGTON (U)—The government reported today that employment declined seasonally by 700,000 in September as students left summer jobs to return to school.

There were 65,671,000 jobholders during the month and 2,552,000 unemployed people looking for work.

There was virtually no change in unemployment, despite the drop in employment, because most of the job reduction occurred among young people who were not in the market for new jobs.

In a joint report, the Commerce and Labor Departments said the decline in September was "about average for the month" although there were 400,000 fewer people working and some 500,000 more out of work than a year ago.

Truck Interests Win Court Suit

PHILADELPHIA (U)—U. S. Dist. Judge Thomas J. Clary today ruled in favor of trucking interests in their multi-million dollar suit against the railroads.

The federal jurist dismissed a counter-suit brought by a group of Eastern railroads against trucking firms. Judge Clary declined to award the truckers the 250 million dollars they had sought from the railroads, contending a conspiracy to drive them out of business. Instead the jurist granted each of 37 trucking firms 18 cents in nominal damages.

Rival Parties Meet

SAN MARINO (U)—Leaders of San Marino's two rival governments planned to meet late today as some Communist volunteers threatened to shoot to buildings.

At the peak of the tension growing out of racial integration ordered at the school by the federal courts, absenteeism reached about 750.

Death Shatters Vow By Couple Never To Part

LOS ANGELES (U)—Five months after her marriage in 1942, something went wrong with Mrs. Henry Miller's memory. She couldn't remember her husband, didn't even know her own identity.

After 10 cloudy months—during which Miller became known as the "amnesia husband"—she finally recalled the marriage. They threw her arms around her husband. They vowed nothing would ever separate them again.

And nothing did until yesterday, when Mrs. Miller, now 37, found her 38-year-old husband dead in their apartment. He had suffered a heart seizure.

Tours Installations

BERLIN (U)—Frank H. Higgins, U. S. assistant Army secretary, arrived by air today for a three-day tour of American Army installations in West Berlin. Higgins, who deals mainly with supply problems, is on a tour of Western Europe.

Lodge Airs Parley Plans Before U. N.

Group Opens Arms
Debate; Says Missile
Discussion Separate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—The United States declared today it is ready to begin multi-nation talks immediately on steps to harness space missiles for peace.

The statement was made by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the U. N.'s 82-nation Political Committee plunged into a detailed debate on disarmament.

Lodge asserted the United States was willing to separate the discussion of space missiles from the general disarmament debate and proceed with it independently.

Talk Initiative

Lodge reminded the committee that the United States 10 years ago had taken the initiative in proposing international control of atomic energy. If this proposal had been accepted, he said, widespread international anxiety could have been avoided.

"We now have a similar opportunity to harness for peace man's newest efforts in outer space," he said. "We have therefore proposed to work out an inspection system that will be a sufficient guarantee that such missiles will be used exclusively for peaceful purposes."

"The United States is prepared to join in this initiative without awaiting the conclusion of negotiations on other substantive issues."

Urgent Inclusion

The United States with Britain, France and Canada, had proposed in the London meetings of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee that the supervision of space objects be included as a part of a general disarmament agreement.

Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev said in an interview in Moscow this week that Russia also would amend its disarmament proposals to provide for international inspection of rocket-launching sites as well as airports.

Russia and the West have each rejected the main points of the other side's arms plan so far. Each now wants the U. N. Assembly to put pressure on the other by endorsing its plan as a basis for future negotiations in the Disarmament subcommittee.

Crew Leaves U. S. Tanker

HONOLULU (U)—Twenty-two of the 45 crewmen of the stricken tanker Mission San Miguel were safely transferred to a Navy LST which was maneuvered into position to take on the rest, the rescue craft radioed early today.

Rising waves smashed into the reef that wrecked the Mission San Miguel. Its engine room was flooded, the LST messaged.

The tanker went aground Tuesday night on Maro Reef, a wave-swept area of rock and shoals some 12 miles long and 5 miles wide. The reef is 745 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Shah Of Iran's Daughter To Wed

TEHRAN (U)—The only child of the Shah of Iran, his 17-year-old daughter Shahnaz Pahlavi, will marry an American-trained agricultural engineer tomorrow. By royal standards, it will be a simple ceremony.

The Shah passed the word to make it simple because, he said, it is no pride to be king of a poor, hungry people.

78th Orbit Completed

LONDON (U)—Moscow radio said the Soviet satellite completed its 78th orbit around the earth early today. The broadcast estimated the sphere up to that time had covered 3 1/2 million kilometers, or about 2,100,000 miles.

Young Boy Shoots Father Over Attendance At School

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. (U)—An 11-year-old boy shot and killed his father, Earl Carl Miller, after the father told him to skip school today, because the father made him attend school.

Leonard Wear, 47-year-old father of 12 children, died yesterday of a 22-caliber bullet wound over the right eye.

The shooting occurred early yesterday morning in the Weavers' Pritchett, 14 miles east of the southeast Colorado community. Shinn said the victim's wife Eunice, 46, was asleep beside her husband at the time.

The district attorney said blood-husky Earl Wear, questioned immediately about his father's death, suddenly

SAN JOSE, Calif. (INS)—An office pool in an advertising agency will pay $3 to each of two winners when the Russian space satellite's flight is officially declared ended. Clauses at 35 cents each were sold on both the day and the hour Sputnik quits.

The $2.40 balance in the 21 chance pool will be contributed to the Defense Department to help finance launching an American satellite.

Speidel Ends North Check; Some Protest

OSLO, Norway (INS)—Gen. Hans Speidel slipped out of Norway today after an overnight visit without encountering demonstrators protesting his service under Hitler.

Speidel, West Germany's top military man who now commands NATO ground forces in central Europe, flew from Tiggje Air Force Base, 50 miles from Oslo. He landed there yesterday to avoid a crowd waiting to demonstrate at the Oslo airport.

Speidel was traveling with French Gen. Jean Valluy, his NATO superior. The group drove out to the air base at such speed that they shook off newsmen. However, there was no crowd at the Oslo airport, where the generals were scheduled to leave an hour later.

On his northern tour Speidel had been hooded in Copenhagen, which Nazi forces also occupied during World War II.

About 5,000 persons demonstrated in Oslo yesterday against his visit and workers staged brief protest strikes throughout the county.

Speidel was jailed by the Nazis after the July 20, 1944, bomb plot against Hitler. He was teaching history when the West German government called him back into uniform in 1950.

Guided Missile Cowboys Active

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (INS)—Hoofs and saddles mix well with guided missiles at White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico.

The missiles belong to the Army, Navy, and Air Force. The cowboy gear belongs to the five men who keep stray cattle and humans out of the missile paths.

Floyd Adams and four cowboys under his direction, patrol the 100-mile-long range from sunrise to sundown five days a week. In two years they have "corralled" 200 horses, nearly half of them wild.

The modern cowboys are not surprised to bring in as many as 300 stray cattle in one week alone. Trespassers of the human kind aren't nearly so numerous but they frequently dare sudden death by wandering past the danger warnings.

The four riders working under Adams are Donald Graham, Fred English, Tom Davhercy, and Dolph Pate, all with at least 15 years of cowboy know-how.

Zhukov Eyes U. S. Military Gear In Tour

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (INS)—Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov arrived by train today in Zagreb on the first leg of his tour of northwestern Yugoslavia.

In the area west of Zagreb, Zhukov will witness maneuvers by Yugoslav troops on what was described as a limited scale. The troops likely will be using American-supplied equipment.

Zhukov already has seen American F84 and F86 jet fighters in Belgrade. About 50 of the planes were lined up at the military base at Inceva Airport, where he lauded Tuesday. There is some reason to speculate they were there for his benefit.

French Attempt To Fill Premier Post Collapses

PARIS (INS)—President Rene Coty joined his Cabinet and unite in a new French premier after Rene Pleven abandoned his attempt to lead the 10-day Cabinet crisis by forming a government.

Sources close to the President said Coty had no likely candidate in mind to head France's 24th postwar government.

The political crisis provoked by the parliamentary defeat of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury deepened with failure of Coty's mission experts said it wasn't impossible for the bird to fly to the National Assembly. The President's first nominee, Socialist Guy Mollet, refused even to try to form a Cabinet.

Picard Sees Atom Satellite As Possibility

U.I.M. Germany (INS)—Prof. Auguste Picard, conqueror of the ocean deep and the stratosphere, said today it might be possible to equip an earth satellite with atomic weapons.

"Nothing is impossible in science," the Swiss balloonist and deep-diving expert told an interviewer.

Picard also said it might be possible to send a manned satellite or rocket into space. But he warned that the large reserve of fuel needed to slow the missile down before it re-entered the earth's atmosphere might make it too heavy to get it off the ground.

How to Torture Your Wife

A WINSTON CLASSIC

Whitney Bolton

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—As a Manhattan bon vivant (the kind who grabs a hot dog and a scoop of coffee seven minutes before curtain time on Broadway), it is sometimes my pleasure, when a royalty check has just arrived or some unplanned fees float to shore, to dine in studied negligence at Sardi's.

This is a restaurant in 44th Street which others with type-writers have described openly and often as "the world's most famous theatrical restaurant."

This frank and candid estimate takes such public mention out of the realm of commercialism and keeps the advertising departments quiet. Besides which—we all pay our checks. No one ever dines "for free" at Sardi's because a typewriter is handy.

The only people who ever dine free at Sardi's are once famed and now broke players of renown, and the house arranges this thoughtful hospitality without fanfare or announcement. No one ever knows.

WHAT BRINGS about this preliminary skirmish with words is that an international amateur cook, Helen Bryson, has sat down with young Vincent Sardi and put together a home cooking guide duplicating the more famous, and desirable, dishes, salads, sauces and desserts available at the restaurant.

Starting with the hors d'oeuvres and parading right through to the desserts and after-theatre specialties, Mrs. Bryson and Vincent have made it all clear and simple in a Random House book called "Curtain Time at Sardi's."

If you want to know how John Golden chicken pie with oysters happened, the anecdote is there, plus the recipe for this pie. If you want to know how Fernando Lamas manages a whole steak between the end of the maline and the beginning of the night performance, that, too, is there.

IT'S REALLY simple in both cases. They took the pastry lid off a chicken pie, thrust some oysters into it and replaced the lid in the late Mr. Golden's case. For Lamas, in a hurry, the meat chef split a steak crosswise into thin slabs of beef, leaving only one edge uncut.

In this manner, there was the same amount of beef only it was in two thinner sections which was cooked twice as fast as a thick piece would have been. It looks like a butterfly and is called Beef Butterfly.

Do you want to duplicate the Vichyssoise they serve? Or bake a French cheesecake as light as down? You can do it at home, exactly.

NOT CONTENT with revealing the long-guarded secrets of this haven for stars, near-stars, hopefuls, advertising executives and automobile sultans, the Sardi-Bryson combination takes the furrows out of your pretty house-keeping brow by giving you pages of TV Supper Dishes, Quick Dinners Before Theatre and even Menus for The Outdoors and Barbues.

You don't have to think of what to serve. Just look up one you like and copy it. I think, if you wanted to go that far, they'd even send you a carton of Sardi's book-matches so your guests could feel really legitimate.

You are spared thought and the check. The latter is no small matter, by the way. Dinner for two, with aperitifs, can run into the fattest part of $20. At home you can do it for much less.

AND IF YOU live in areas in which wines are not a common event, the book details for you what wines to serve with what dishes. More people than you think stumble in this department. It gives them by name, year, and usage.

Would you know, for example, that if you had the Jones' and the Chicottis in for a Sardi dinner at home that with the Apricot Tart Amaretto you should serve Krug, Private Cuvee, 1947? You did, honey? I didn't. And I've had Apricot Tart Amaretto at Sardi's. I guess I'm the unshaved and lost type.

I did know, however, that with Roast Vito Farm Rock Cornish Game Poulet Veronique you serve a red Burgundy, Chateau Haut Brion, 1953. I know because I sat next to Victor Berge one night when he was having all this. The game hen came from his own farm, what's more. I don't know who furnished the wine.

WITH RAGOUT of Spring Lamb, Irish Style, the wine is Meursault, Goulte d'Or, Estate Botling, 1953, and the next time I'm in Dublin I'm going to order just that and then step back and see what happens. I can guess.

Nevertheless, and good-natured chattering to the side, this is a good book for anyone who doesn't think mashed potatoes and fried liver necessarily make a good dinner. It's for people who want to do their best with what they have for the table they are preparing.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Sidewalk scrawls of a pavement Plato:

America, the richest country on earth, is also the land of the half-well.

It has millions of people who dwell in twilight health—they aren't sick enough to go to a hospital and they aren't well enough to feel good.

They are chronically fatigued and feel sure there must be something seriously wrong with them.

But in a majority of cases the only thing wrong with them is themselves, and their bad living habits which—let's face it—would kill an Airedale or break down a buffalo.

So what do they do? They take a pill... another pill... and still another pill. Pills, capsules, tablets—every year they spew out of the machines and down the gutlets of half-ailing Americans by the millions and billions.

And to what effect? A remarkably small one, many honest doctors would be the first to agree.

THE MOST persistent delusion of many otherwise sensible people is that the fountain of health lies in a well-stocked medicine cabinet.

Actually, what this country needs is an organization called "Pill-Takers Anonymous," composed of people who have broken themselves of the habit of taking pills and potions needlessly.

The pill-taking habit, if overdone, is in its way as harmful as excessive smoking or drinking.

The reason: It lulls people into a false sense of well-being, prevents them from making the changes in their living habits that alone can restore them to real health.

I am speaking, of course, not of pills prescribed for genuine organic ailments, but pills for "that tired feeling."

THE AVERAGE middle-aged pill-taking American who has nothing seriously wrong with him can achieve the same result the same way. Aristotle gave the key to healthful living long ago: "Moderation."

Pills are in too many cases merely a kind of crutch, a form of bottled psychiatry which can often hurt more than help.

Here is the prescription that will put more zing into living for America's jittery pill prisoners than all the wonder drugs ever invented:

Quit feeling sorry for yourself. Self-pity will make even a whale sick.

Get an hour more sleep every night.

Eat only the foods you tell your kids are good for them.

Spend at least half an hour a day in some kind of moderate exercise—even if it consists only of patting yourself on the back.

Never take a pill except when you have a nosebleed. The pill won't help the nosebleed, but on the other hand do most of the pills you gulp now do any more to make you really healthier?

WASHINGTON—Having observed President Eisenhower at news conferences for five years come Candlemas, I think I have at last figured out why Ike can be slung to rage by one sharp question but be unmoved by another equally pointed. The answer is that Ike can never be slung if he has even a split second to get set for a stinger.

A newspaperman who has ever goaded the President into a flare-up, no matter how inadvertently, can never do it a second time. Every time the President makes his entrance into the two-tiered conference room in the old State War and Navy Building, he always reminds me of a mind-reading act making its entrance in a night club. The President lets his eye range over the assemblage, seemingly casually, but in that one glance he has cased the entire audience.

ANY CORRESPONDENT who has ever stung him once might as well ask him if he likes new moon hay for all the rise he will ever get out of the again. For instance, back in the spring, the President was not familiar with a scrivener from Chicago named William McGuffin. So when the stranger appeared him with the suggestion that he give up his two farm-and-golf helicopters in the interests of national economy, Ike flamed red, white, and blue, not necessarily from patriotism.

But Ike got to be on the alert against a gaffin from McGuffin. The upshot was that McGuffin tried to rake him at our latest get-together and didn't even ruffle a leaf. The helicopter hell-raiser asked:

"Sir, you probably are aware that some of your critics feel you were too slow in asserting a vigorous leadership in this (Arkansas) integration crisis. Do you feel, Sir, that the results would be any different if you had acted sooner, instead of, as your critics say, letting the thing drift?"

The President merely smiled as sweetly as if he'd been presented with a prize Black Angus and replied: "I am astonished how many people know exactly what the President of the United States should do."

MR. EISENHOWER also has himself completely in hand before he ever recognizes Chalmers Roberts, foreign affairs editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald. This is because Mr. Roberts, as friendly a man as you'd care to meet, asked him a couple of months ago whether contributions to the GOP had anything to do with the appointment of Maxwell Gluck, as ambassador to Ceylon.

Ike almost bit the ceiling before forcing himself to subside sufficiently to explain he doesn't select ambassadors on the basis of campaign contributions.

The President has always hated to be stung into a rage, and has always tried to guard against it, but he has more than his desires working for him now. His physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, has warned him against blowing his stack.

Doe Snyder told him to control his emotions and let nothing tamper with his temper.

That's why the same questioner seldom slings Ike to a display of rage twice. Unless a hot zigzag is thrown at him from an unexpected source he maintains a state that we in the Washington press corps now refer to as:

"Ike's deliberate calm."

Congress May Probe U. S. "Moon" Failure

WASHINGTON—As the Soviet spunknik sailed near the nation's capital, the Eisenhower Administration continued to minimize its importance.

The President drove to the White House after lunch from a golfing week out at Gettysburg. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced he could not hold his weekly press briefing because he had to talk with Canadian officials.

At the Pentagon, where a deep sense of frustration reigns, nobody talked of anything else but the historic developments of the past few days. But nothing official was being done and it is recognized that this one will be handled at the White House, not by the services nor by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A CHALLENGE arrived from Congress which could be significant. Senator George Smathers of Florida is Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson's present favorite political lieutenant and Smathers has asked Armed Services Chairman Richard Russell to make an investigation of why America didn't get there first with the biggest satellite.

It is apparent that Johnson favors the investigation. His fine Italian hand also emerges in the nicely sharpened harpoon with the President's name on it which appears in the Smathers telegram.

The harpoon takes the form of a suggestion by Smathers that possibly "insufficient emphasis has been placed on these programs (the satellites) by the executive branch of the government."

The Senator has support among scientists and military experts for this thought. At least none of them will admit that this country could not have achieved the conquest of outer space if it had attached enough importance to it.

THE COURSE of satellite appropriations is now being traced through the budget labyrinth. It will show, according to one Pentagon expert, that a separate civilian direction was established, divorced from defense, that funds were restricted and that no special performance pressures were applied.

The President's luck has held in that Congress is not in session to give his critics a sounding board. He has nearly three months left in which to utilize the vast apparatus available to the Administration for putting the problem into the perspective in which he sees it.

It will afford a great test of his military leadership in which the country has shown such faith. Eventually he is going to have to put a dollar sign on his views and then defend it to the Congress.

THE COUNTRY has shown in the past that it shares the President's own taste for relaxation. His last budget provoked economy demands which Congress reflected and he himself bowed to.

Up to now the scheduled maneuvering for the next session of Congress has emphasized tax-cutting and civil rights about equally. But both are due to take a back seat while the implications of Russia's "first" in space flight are argued.

The President has not heretofore had to cope with any such powerful, obvious evidence of Soviet power. While official Washington has often been wrong about Soviet capabilities, the issue appeared technical and remote.

Americans generally, hating communism, were ready to believe it could not possibly force ahead in any field. Now its scientists have shattered that illusion.

"Hands Off" Algerian Policy Hard To Keep

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—It's hard for most Americans to get very excited about the Algerian fight for independence from France. But the official U.S. "hands-off" policy on this issue is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain.

Few Americans have any appreciable firsthand knowledge of the area. Their regard for it isn't too high.

There is a natural American instinct to support the Algerian underdogs in their revolutionary independence movement.

There is also a vague annoyance at French inability to solve this Algerian problem and for pulling U.S.-equipped French troops out of the NATO lines in Europe to fight the poor, beat-up Arab rebels in North Africa.

Officially, the U.S. government's position has been consistent support of France.

But every time the embarrassing Algerian question comes up in United Nations, it becomes harder to brush it aside.

Last year the General Assembly passed a resolution hoping that a just solution could be found. This year there is a resolution noting that no progress has been made and hinting openly that something ought to be done about it.

THIS YEAR'S resolution is backed by 22 nations. Nineteen are Middle East and Southeast Asia Muslim countries from Libya to Indonesia. The others are India, Japan and the Philippines.

Against such pressure there is some question as to how long the United States can continue to be so standoffish.

What really gums up the works for American public opinion support, however, is that the Algerians themselves are split into factions that can't unite on what they want or how they want it.

Two Algerian political parties now have representatives in the United States, and they don't speak. They are Abdel Kader Chandelier of the Algerian Front of National Liberation (F.L.N.), and Secretary General Moulay Merbah of the Algerian National Movement (N.M.A.).

BOTH GROUPS claim to represent a majority of the nine million native Algerians. But neither group will make any revelation of its members nor estimate its opponents' strength.

The principal ideological difference between the two factions seems to be that while N.M.A. claims it is supported solely by Algerian sources, F.L.N. will take support any place it's obtainable, including Nasser Egypt and other Arab states.

F.L.N. would apparently like to take over from the French as the new Algerian government. N.M.A. seems to favor a more democratic, elected constitutional government.

These conflicts are complicated by other splinter parties and movements, including an Algerian Communist Party, P.C.A. All are equally vague as to their strength and influence.

The result is an internal confusion almost as great as the involved, many-party political picture in France itself.

MEANWHILE, The rebels doing the actual fighting in the so-called Algerian Army of National Liberation, A. L. N., are scattered in many bands of resistance fighters.

But their leaders would ultimately have more strength within the country than any political parties in exile that hope to come back and take over if or when the revolt against France is successful.

This internal complexity greatly weakens the Algerian cause before the United Nations and in the United States.

A Complex

SOME PEOPLE, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover among them, believe that the breakup of the American home is responsible for the nation's tremendous increase in juvenile delinquency.

Though there is something to this, it is by no means the whole story.

It can be demonstrated that a very high proportion of delinquents come from broken homes or homes in which there is marital maladjustment and strife. But back of this is the question as to why there is so much erosion in the family today.

Earlier this year the Minnesota state commission on juvenile delinquency, adult crime and corrections pointed out that the rapid industrialization and urbanization of American society has had much to do both with family difficulties and the increase in delinquency.

There are many forces in our mobile technological society that play on the old bases of family solidarity. Until we perfect means for shoring up the family against this onslaught, we will have increasing social difficulties.

Many plausible explanations for increasing juvenile delinquency have been advanced. The breakup of families is one of them. But we have to go beyond any one simple explanation if we are really to act effectively. Delinquency is a social complex. There are many, many causes, and these can be overlapping and interacting. When we simplify too much in this area we are likely to miss the tough, complicated problems that confront us. When we congratulate ourselves on an easy answer we evade the hard work that must be done if we are to find a solution.

ALL THIS ISN'T exactly spoofery. It's a worrisome thing to read how our official trackers listen to the radio beep of the thing and calculate to the minute when it'll be traveling above Washington, D. C., at 18,000 miles an hour.

Some of the specialists claim that the Red ball must consist mostly of storage batteries to power the beeper that sends out its signals 24 hours a day. This, in my opinion, is ridiculous. I own an electric wrist watch which has been running now for nearly a year on a battery the size of an aspirin tablet.

No telling what all's in that Russian moon, but I'll bet the battery is about the size of a teacup.

A LOT OF people in odd places, starting with Tasmania, claim they've already seen the satellite.

There are many forces in our mobile technological society that play on the old bases of family solidarity. Until we perfect means for shoring up the family against this onslaught, we will have increasing social difficulties.

Your Pharmacist

IF A VISITOR to this country set out to find true American atmosphere, certainly one of the first places he would go to is the nearest retail pharmacy, better known as the drug store. American pharmacies—from Maine to California, from Miami to Seattle—have a character all their own. In each of these pharmacies, countless services are performed for you, and for others, by the pharmacist. You may know your pharmacist personally, or you may know him only by sight—but there are a few things you ought to know about him.

TODAY'S PHARMACIST — he is called the chemist in England — is a man of long and specialized training. To get his college degree, he must have a broad and exact knowledge of the many technical sciences associated with the action, handling and dispensing of drugs, chemicals, biological products, antibiotics, and other medicinal agents. He must have passed a rigid state examination to become a licensed pharmacist. Then, like your doctor, he must keep abreast of the latest medical developments, the newest drugs, and the constant improvement of pharmaceutical products. He devotes painstaking care to the preparation of every prescription your doctor orders. He uses precision equipment with scientific skill. He has an intimate knowledge of the thousands of drugs and chemicals he keeps on hand—where to buy them, how to care for them, how to dispense them safely. He checks and rechecks every ingredient he uses and every step in his compounding technique.

DESPITE HIS LONG hours, your pharmacist enters into the civic, service and religious organizations of your community, doing his part as a good citizen and a good neighbor. Every day, in communities, large and small, he is helping to make and keep America the finest land to live in, and the healthiest nation in the world. The current week is being observed as National Pharmacy Week and we should take stock of the many fine contributions the nation's pharmacists are making to the American way of life.

BY DECLARING that a college education is not designed to qualify graduates for television quiz success the president of Princeton may have terminated the educational aspirations of more than a few young Americans.

Back To Earth

THE MAN WHOSE window looks out upon trees can watch the progress of autumn day by day. It is an experience not without its chilling overtones, and yet there is a certain melancholy charm about this seasonal change. On one day the trees are wearing the deep green of late summer; the next, they are touched with red and yellow. These bright flags of color expand, then, from day to day. But that is not the only change. Even before the trees are transformed wholly from living green to slow-consuming flame, the leaves begin to fall. At first they detach themselves from the mother tree one by one and drift slowly to the ground. A week may pass before there is much evidence of their single departure. But then all at once it becomes apparent that the foliage is thinner: there is open sky where there was only green shade before, and soon entire branches trace their dark nerve pattern against the light. The leaves break away in flocks and covers now, whirling and fluttering in mad patterns. They take wing on every breeze, and carpet the ground beneath. After that, the end is in sight. Hour by hour through the golden days, the leaves shed their bright garments. A few more gusts of wind, a touch of frost one morning to weight the leaves and send them falling straight to earth, and the cycle will be complete.

A BRITISH medical authority says physicians in England jeopardize their health by using autos too much, thus reducing by needed physical exercise. Over here they get their exercises walking to and from parking places.

KHRUSHCHEV has urged Russian artists to center on works having propaganda value. Of course, he does not include pictures of Russian workers on pay day receiving a tiny fraction of the average American wage.

Clergyman Confronts Doctors With Statement That Tranquilizers Fail To Solve Emotional Troubles

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Tranquilizers, whether physical or spiritual, fail to solve emotional troubles, a clergyman told some 300 Maryland doctors last night.

The Rev. Robert P. Varley, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Salisbury, was the speaker at the closing session of the 8th annual scientific assembly of the Maryland Academy of General Practice.

Physical and spiritual tranquilizers are only an easy, temporary solution, the Rev. Mr. Varley said, in calling for a common meeting ground on which the physician and clergyman may continue their partnership.

"We need to call upon the full resources of psychological science, physical medicine and orthodox religion," he said, "if we are to deal rightly with the tremendous fact of human suffering."

The minister said today's religious leaders are faced with two answers to the problem of meeting man's needs in a world filled with anxiety.

On one side, he said, is the group which feels that the aim of religion in human experience is to help the individual gain freedom from physical pain, emotional stress and spiritual aridity.

"This is the peace of mind school with its emphasis on co-existent living," The Rev. Varley said.

"There is a kind of psychology which emphasizes adjustment rather than real remedy—a kind of psychiatry which sees tranquility, comfort and absence of conflict as an ultimate goal in life."

The Episcopal minister assailed modern day preachers who offer, "like real estate salesmen, heavy claims, he provides the theologian only acres in the future as a sojourn for today's ills."

The true role of religion, he said, is to help the individual cope with the living situations in such a fashion that he may achieve peace of mind, emotional and spiritual health.

"God not only provides the physical, difficulties in the practice of medicine," he said. "The physician is aware of the seat of the trouble. Like the clergyman, he is faced with the dilemma of using medical agents such as tranquilizers. Like the clergyman, he can take time to assist the patient to gain the insight necessary to conquer the problem."

Lamb Steaks Seville Unusual

A barbecued lamb steak is a fine change from the usual fare, and the Spanish-like to buy steaks from the leg or shoulder that are about an inch and a half thick.

The steaks are rubbed with a garlic clove, brushed liberally with olive oil, salted, peppered and grilled until pink on the inside.

Sliced cucumbers dressed with two parts of olive oil to one of vinegar are a fine accompaniment.

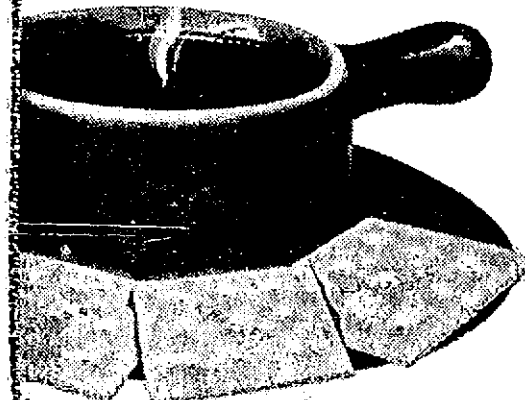

Good gift for traveler: a rust-resistant knife, fork, teaspoon and tablespoon all tucked into a neat case.

Mocha Frosting Flavors Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
This frosting is the answer to a reader's request — and maybe her prayer! If you, too, have always wanted a professionally smooth cover-up for a cake — the sort that bakeries prepare — we urge you to try this recipe.

Chocolate and coffee blend together in this frosting to spell mocha, a flavor that tastes luscious with a sponge cake that also has coffee added.

Coffee Sponge Cake
Ingredients: 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon instant powdered coffee, 5 eggs (separated), 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, Professional Mocha Frosting.

Method: Sift together the cake flour, baking powder, cream of tartar, salt and powdered coffee three times. With rotary beater (hand or electric), beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in the sugar. Slowly add light corn syrup, beating as you do so; continue beating until whites stand in straight peaks that do not topple over when beater is slowly withdrawn. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon colored; beat in vanilla. Fold beaten egg yolks into beaten egg-white mixture. Gradually fold in sifted dry ingredients, sifting about 1/4 cup at a time over the surface. Pour batter into three ungreased round layer-cake pans (each 8 by 1 1/2 inches); bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven for 20 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched with finger. Invert pans on cake racks until cake is cool.

A CAKE-EATER'S DREAM — Coffee, sponge cake with mocha frosting.

about 30 minutes. Loosen sides with spatula, using straight up-and-down motion; ease cakes from pans with fingers and long spatula. Put layers together and cover whole cake with Professional Mocha Frosting.

Professional Mocha Frosting
Ingredients: 6 ounces candy-making chocolate, 1/4 cup water, 4 egg yolks, 1/2 teaspoon instant powdered coffee, 1/4 cup light corn syrup, 1 cup butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon vanilla, blanched (whole or halved lengthwise) toasted almonds.

Method: Melt chocolate and water in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water; cool thoroughly. With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; beat in instant coffee. Boil light corn syrup until it spins a thread (to 230 degrees on candy thermometer). Beating constantly, pour hot syrup slowly over egg yolks; beat until very thick and light colored; cool thoroughly. Cream butter and beat into cold egg yolk-corn syrup mixture. Add chocolate mixture and vanilla; beat until blended and smooth. Spread frosting on layers and outside of cake, reserving 1/4 cup for edging. (If frosting is very soft, chill reserved portion briefly until stiff enough to use as edging.) For edging, force frosting through decorating tube. Refrigerate about 1 hour before slicing; then decorate top with almonds; use a knife to make bars on frosting around sides of cake. Enough frosting for filling and covering tops and sides of three 8 or two 9-inch layers. Cake keeps well refrigerated overnight; use a dome-type cover (a large bowl is fine).

Cheese Ham Roll

1 2 1/2 ounce can deviled ham
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped scallions or onions
10 of the selected crackers finely rolled for 1/2 cup crumbs
2 slices Swiss cheese at room temperature

Blend the deviled ham, lemon juice, onions and crumbs. Spread equal amount of mixture on Swiss Cheese slices and roll. Wrap rolls in wax paper. Chill until firm. Each roll makes about 8 slices to be served between the cracker of choice.

Golden Cheese Soufflé

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, cayenne pepper, 3/4 cup milk, 1/4 pound mild cheddar cheese (finely grated), 1/4 pound sharp cheddar cheese (finely grated), 4 large eggs (separated).

Method: Melt butter over low heat in a 2-quart saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and a dash of cayenne. Add milk all at once; cook and stir constantly until thickened and bubbly. Stir in cheddar (keeping heat very low or using an asbestos pad) until melted; remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly; beat in some of the cheese sauce; return to saucepan, heating vigorously as you do so. With clean rotary beater (hand or electric), beat egg whites until they hold stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn. Fold in cheese mixture until there are no white blobs. Turn into a 1 1/2-quart ungreased baking dish; bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven until high, golden brown and firm on top. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

California Dip

Beat 1 8-ounce package cream cheese until fluffy. Blend in 1/4 pound Bleu cheese and 2 tablespoons of light cream. Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped celery, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans. If dip is too stiff, add more cream. Chill. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

FRINGE FASHION — Gray silk fringe forms the veil in this original creation by Alibouy of Paris. A light-brown velvet toque with asymmetric brim makes a perfect background to the gray net. The pretty Parisian model does the hat justice.

Olive Oil Seals Juice In Meat

The Spanish have been grill-of two lemons, a crushed garlic, broiling and barbecuing olive, salt and pepper. A quarter-cup of vinegar is sometimes substituted for the lemon juice, and rosemary, crushed bay leaves or oregano are substituted for the garlic. The olive oil is the secret of its success, for it seals in the meat which has been added the juice juices as nothing else will.

Method: Beat egg yolks and sugar together thoroughly; beat in orange juice — there should be 1/2 to 1 cup. Method: Cover beef brisket, in a kettle, with water. Add chopped celery, celery tops, salt, pepper, bay leaf and cloves. Cover and bring rapidly to simmering; lower heat and simmer until tender when a fork is inserted in center — 2 1/2 to 3 hours. About 30 minutes before beef is done, add whole potatoes and carrots; about 15 minutes later add cabbage wedges. Strain broth; slice meat. Meat 'Specials' Include Steaks, Roasts And Hams

By The Associated Press

The thrifty-conscious housewife will find several attractively priced meats to choose from at supermarkets this week.

Tagged by leading food chains as "specials" are chuck roast, leg of veal, fresh or smoked picnic hams, roasting turkeys and chickens for frying or broiling.

Sirloin steak is being offered at sharply reduced prices here and there. Market specialists says the sirloin bargains are a one-time promotional event and that next week prices will be back where they were before. The same holds for bacon and pork. The general trend for pork is higher.

Egg prices are up this week. Hens are molting and productivity is off. In most larger cities you'll find the retail price of large white eggs up 6, 8 or even 10 cents a dozen since last week. Brown and medium-sized eggs also are higher.

There are bargains galore in produce. The fall harvest of values is in full swing—There are Russet potatoes and yellow sweet corn from the Pacific northwest, yams from Virginia and the Carolinas, lettuce and greens from California. Outstanding buys of the week include potatoes, peppers, cauliflower, brunched or topped beets and white turnips.

Brussels sprouts, Western pacal celery, Florida egg plant, Virginia cucumbers and Idaho onions are in plentiful supply and of excellent quality. California iceberg lettuce also is attractively priced.

There's an abundance of apples and pears this week. Supplies of Florida grapefruit are reaching big city markets in greater volume and prices are trending lower.

The season, however, has not yet reached its peak. California oranges offer good value. Seedless Thompson grapes from California are tops in quality and moderate in price.

Cheese is one of the best food values available, nutritionally and bargain-wise. Supplies are plentiful and prices low.

Cranberries likewise offer top value. U. S. production for 1957 Grade A whites up 6, 8 or even 10 cents a dozen since last week. That would be five per cent above 1956 and nine per cent above the average.

Start Planning Halloween Fare

FOR HALLOWEEN—Soup in a pumpkin tureen (left) and frosted doughnuts with jack-o-lantern faces. For smaltzy ghosts and goblins

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Because a Halloween party for small fry needs fun food, here are two ideas to consider.

Ask youngsters to supper and use a pumpkin jack-o-lantern to hold a bowl of nourishing hot soup. Two varieties of canned condensed soup, beef noodle and vegetable, may be heated with 1 1/2 soup cans of water for this course. In serve four; double the quantities as needed. Most children like these varieties of soup and they'll be enthralled with the pumpkin tureen. Use a favorite filling for sandwiches to accompany the soup.

Let the dessert be a do-it-yourself affair. Have storebought doughnuts on hand along with a goodly amount of confectioners' sugar frosting and assorted Halloween candies. The trick-and-treat set will have a wonderful time frosting the doughnuts and decorating them with funny faces, using the candy for features. To make life easy for both small fry and yourself, put the frosting in small paper dessert dishes, and have wooden tongue depressors handy for spreading.

The party beverage might be cider served in paper cups decorated with a Halloween motif.

Or, if you like, serve ham burgers on toasted buns with carrot curls and milk (made orange with food coloring). For dessert, orange sherbet with chocolate-frosted cupcakes.

If the party is in the afternoon or evening, you can serve sandwiches cut into appropriate Halloween shapes with a cookie cutter. For the sandwich filling, mix cream cheese with orange food coloring. These simple sandwiches taste delicious with hot cocoa. The sweet treat might be a white cake covered with orange frosting with a Halloween cat outlined over the top with licorice jelly beans.

State Polio Case Number Shows Drop

Only One-Sixth Of Last Year's Total Reported

BALTIMORE, Md. — Maryland ended its 1957 polio season with only 12 cases of paralytic polio, about one-sixth of the number last year.

There was only one death and that case had not received the Salk vaccine, the State Health Department reported today.

None of the 12 cases had received the full series of three inoculations, Dr. Edward Davens, deputy director of health said.

The total of 12 cases compared dramatically with four previous years. There were 70 cases in 1956, 102 in 1955, 99 in 1954 and 241 in 1953.

Dr. Davens estimated 80 to 85 per cent of the 963,460 persons in Maryland under 20 years of age, had at least started the course of three shots by Oct. 1.

Other than the 23-year-old man who died of polio, Dr. Davens said six of the Maryland victims had received one or two injections of vaccine and the other five had received none.

"All six children who had received some vaccine suffered mild disease and are expected to have only slight residual disability," Dr. Davens added.

He said Maryland's encouraging results with the polio vaccine "follows quite closely the situation in the United States."

Nationally, health authorities reported only 1,576 paralytic cases so far this year, compared with 3,241 last year and 7,886 two years ago before widespread use of the vaccine.

Dr. Davens said the number of Marylanders already covered by the vaccine is "truly remarkable" in view of the short time since the vaccine was approved. He said vaccination against diphtheria required decades for similar coverage.

Dr. Davens reminded the public that the complete immunization course of three shots is strongly recommended by the health department and medical authorities in general, particularly for all persons under 20 and pregnant women.

The department also has recommended that persons between 20 and 45 receive the shots. Although the number of cases of polio in this age group is fewer, the severity of the disease is usually worse in persons over 20.

Building Permits Granted In Area

The Allegany County Assessing Department has issued two building permits to Frostburg residents.

Graham Truly, of 200 McCulloch Street, plans to build a dwelling which will have six rooms and a bath and will cost approximately $11,000 to construct. It will measure 28 by 48 feet.

The home will have a concrete block foundation, brick walls, composition roof and a cellar. It will be built on land assessed to the Borden Mining Company.

Jacob I. Scott, of 117 East Main Street, was issued a permit to build a 41 by 36 foot dwelling on Lot 23 along Albert Avenue on Centennial Hill.

The stone dwelling will have a concrete block foundation and shingle roof. The estimated cost of the home will be $6,000.

The Swiss town of Leuk was destroyed by an avalanche three times, but now is protected from such danger by a strong embankment.

Wall Street Hears...

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears:

General Mills sales and earnings are running "well ahead" of a year ago. In the six months ended Nov. 30, 1956, it earned $1.97 a share and for the fiscal year ended last May 31 net came to $4.88.

Net of Union Bag-Camp Paper for the second half "should equal that for the first six months" when it reported income of $1.25 a share. Full-year net of $2.50 would compare with $3.02 in 1956.

American Polaris and Chemical is expected to show about $2.50 this year vs. $2.64 in 1956. American Viscose 1957 profits may be down to about $2.25 from $2.93 last year.

Talk that the merger negotiations between Brunswick-Balke-Collender and MacGregor Sport Products have been revived. Merger talks between Southern Natural Gas and Sunlight Refining, however, are believed to have collapsed.

"A better defined selling climax should occur before a substantial amount of one's reserves is used for a sustained technical recovery."

Market comment — Arthur W. Bullock of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis:

Work Progresses At City Hall

City workers are putting the finishing touches on the remodeled quarters for the City Clerk, Registration and Civil Service Commission offices.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said the quarters in the basement of City Hall should be ready for use in about a week.

A glass door was installed in the combined office Tuesday and a similar modern door will be placed at the Bedford Street entrance soon.

Fluorescent lights have been installed in the large room which has been painted sunbeam yellow.

Commissioner Buchholtz said the glass doors have been ordered for the main floor of City Hall and will be installed in about two weeks.

Local Business Firms Plan Observance Courtesy Week

Business firms in Cumberland series of three clinics to be presented by Howard J. Wischaupt, nationally known as "the good doctor of better business."

The clinics will be held October 22, 23 and 24 in the Maryland Theater. Employers are invited to attend and to enroll their employees. Reservations may be made at the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

Objectives of the observance, the chamber announces, are "a dedication of employers and employees to the practice of courtesy in their everyday lives and to the instilling in the public consciousness the value of the continual practice of courtesy as one of the principal keys to the further progress and prosperity of the Cumberland Area."

Mr. Wischaupt's theme is that courtesy pays dividends for the community as well as business. In addition to his appearance at the clinics, Mr. Wischaupt has been scheduled to speak before the Rotary and Optimist clubs and will address student assemblies at Port Hill and Allegany high schools.

First Prestressed Bridge Span Goes Up In District

The 18-ton girders prestressed concrete bridge across Evitts Creek on State Route 51 are being eased into place this week.

The first of its kind in this area and the third to be built in Maryland, the prestressed concrete bridge is being built for the Maryland State Roads Commission by the George Construction Company of Cumberland.

Crews began Tuesday morning to set the big I beams in place on foundations prepared by the local construction firm.

The big beams were prestressed and cast of concrete in Winchester, Va., and brought here by truck.

Half of the beams will be set in place this week and the other 45 are expected to begin arriving in two or three weeks.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, who inspected the job yesterday with City Engineer C. R. Nazum, termed the span a "beautiful job."

He said the girders will be held together by tie rods and provide a solid floor for the span after blacktop is laid.

It will be comparable in beauty, he said, with the new Potomac River bridge at Riverside Park.

The $370,478 bridge will be 153 feet long and provide two roadways, each 34 feet wide. The traffic lanes will be separated by a 16-foot median strip and five-foot sidewalks are provided on either side.

It will eventually be tied in with the Industrial Boulevard segment of the Cumberland Thruway.

The ultra-modern span is located near the 435-foot concrete culvert built over Evitts Creek to carry tracks of the B & O's car classification yards.

Rapid strides are being made, Mayor Eves reported, on the B&O yard project.

He said he and Mr. Nazum saw 13 pieces of heavy earth moving equipment at work in one area near Mexico Farms yesterday.

Some of the rigs, he said, scoop up at one pass as much earth as could be carried in over 300 wheelbarrows.

Area Youths To Take Part State Contest

Four members of Boys 4-H Clubs in Allegany County will take part in the state-wide vegetable identification contest tomorrow at College Park.

They will also compete with boys from throughout the state in identifying diseases, insects and weeds which affect vegetable growth.

Louis Miltenberger, of Ridgeley, a student at LaSalle High School, Dale Geary, Russell and James Chambers, of Mt. Savage High School, plan to match their knowledge with other 4-H Club members of Maryland counties.

Aside from Irish potato grading there will be the identification of Irish potato grade defects such as air crack, blight, dry rot, rot injury and sunburn.

Also they will attempt to identify such vegetable diseases as blight, smut, and scabs as well as insects as the squash bug, Mexican bean beetle, cabbage butterfly and corn earworm. Such weeds as crabgrass, pig weed, chickweed and dandelion will be among those to be identified by the competitors.

GOP Woman May Actively Seek Veep Job

Top Ranking Party Leaders Consider Bertha Adkins

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore radio station says that Bertha Adkins of Salisbury, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, is being seriously considered as a candidate for vice-president in 1960.

John F. Lewis, news director of WBAL, said in his "Maryland report" program last night that top-ranking Republican leaders were considering such a move in high council sessions now in Washington.

Lewis said the word was that "the party believes it is time to formally recognize the powerful part women play in U.S. politics, and they further believe they have the candidate who would gain the important East Coast vote."

"Miss Adkins is from a prominent Salisbury family. She has been active in the Maryland GOP for some years and in the past decade has risen to the highest position in either party, with the possible exception of several women-Cabinet members who have been appointed."

"Most of the favorable consideration of Bertha Adkins for vice-president comes from party leaders who believe a Californian, either Richard Nixon or Sen. William Knowland, will be nominated for the presidency in 1960. Since both Knowland and Nixon come from heavily populated areas, Miss Adkins would provide the party with a rural, small-town background in a border state that has indicated strong Republican sentiment in recent years."

"If she were paired with Nixon, she would provide conservatives within her own party with a candidacy with which they could be enthusiastic, since she was once identified with the wing of the GOP headed by the late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio."

Lewis said tonight Salisbury would sponsor "the first major Republican meeting."

Knowland is scheduled to address a Republican gathering at Salisbury tonight.

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Southern Maryland businessman bought back from the government for $900 yesterday three slot machines seized because $750 in gambling taxes had not been paid.

Philip E. Gray of Lexington Park was the successful bidder at an auction held by U.S. Marshal Gerald F. Bracken. Court records showed Gray had a $20,000 mortgage on the machines with $10,000 balance outstanding.

Federal tax agents seized the machines April 9 at a tavern in Indian Head, Md.

In cases where the machines are seized for violation of federal internal revenue laws they may be sold at auction. Federal law forbids shipment of the machines or their parts across state lines.

In addition to the $800 received at the auction the government also kept $40 in jackpots in the 25, 10 and 5-cent machines.

State Police Plan Second Crime Report

Two Men Summoned Before Grand Jury In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maj. William J. Weber, who has headed the State Police probe of morals charges against two high-ranking Baltimore police officers, said a second report will be submitted tomorrow to Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert.

This second report is presumed to cover reported charges of graft in the department.

Meanwhile two men have been summoned to appear tomorrow when the grand jury begins taking testimony about the immorality charges.

State's Atty. J. Harold Grady said summons have been issued for Alvin J. T. Zumbro, managing director of the Criminal Justice Commission, and Sgt. Edgar Kirby of the rackets division.

In still another development, Police Commissioner James M. Heffron announced yesterday he has appointed Inspector George J. Murphy, chief of detectives, to start a departmental investigation for evidence of police bribe-taking, shakedown and other graft.

The initial investigation was started three weeks ago when the Criminal Justice Commission, in a report to Commissioner Heffron, accused the two high-ranking policeman and a civilian of maintaining an apartment for a convicted prostitute.

Since the probe started, Inspector Clarence D. Forrester and Captain Hyman Goldstein have been suspended and Sgt. Charles Gross committed suicide.

DiMag Gives Yanks Edge Due To Don

Joe DiMaggio, former star center fielder of the New York Yankees, who is writing daily analyses of the World Series, says the Yanks have the edge today with Don Larsen going for them.

By JOE DIMAGGIO
NEW YORK (INS)—The sixth game proved that Hank Bauer couldn't be denied.

Last Sunday he tripled across a run in the top of the tenth to put the Yankees ahead and it looked like he would be a hero then.

The Braves, though, bounced back and nullified Hank's timely wallops with a rally of their own. That's the game Eddie Mathews won with a two-run homer.

But yesterday belonged to Bauer. Old Hank slammed a homer in the seventh to put the Yanks ahead, and this time it stuck. Now it's all-square in the series again and today they'll be playing the clincher.

It's a funny thing about Bauer. He can look so bad on certain pitches—as he did earlier in yesterday's game. He fanned twice and popped up once before he came to bat in the seventh inning.

Yet, when the big hit was needed, Hank produced it. That's what you have to like about him—he manages to come through at the crucial time.

As for Yogi Berra, he has been getting his share of hits right along. But yesterday he came to life in the extra-base-hit department.

The Yankees had been looking for help from Yogi in that direction and, once again, he didn't let them down.

It's a great feeling to jump into the lead when you have your back to the wall. That's precisely what Berra provided for the Yankees when he slammed his two-run homer off Bob Buhl in the third inning to break a scoreless tie.

It gave the Yanks a breather. Scoring first always does that. It's an important point in a game. Watch today's developments. I don't say that the team which scores first will win. But there's no question in my mind that it's a big edge.

By the way, weren't they the first runs-batted-in for Berra? You've got to hand it to Bob Turley, too. Bob had a terrible day in Milwaukee, being knocked out early. But Casey Stengel had faith in him, gave him another chance and Bob came through with colors flying.

Did you see him work in the last inning? After he walked Mathews' Turley threw six straight strikes. First he fanned Hank Aaron, then he got Wes Covington to bounce into the game-ending double play.

Covington, incidentally, is having a tough time at the plate. His batting is not keeping pace with his sensational fielding. The Milwaukee youngster hasn't made a hit since the second game.

On defense, though, it's different. He came up with another outstanding play yesterday, doubling up Berra at the plate with a rifle peg after Berra tried to score on Jerry Lumpe's fly near the left-field foul line.

The throw was high. Del Rice jumping up for it. But it was hard and straight and Rice had no trouble putting the tag on Yogi.

Frank Torre is emerging a pleasant surprise. This Brooklyn kid helped the Braves win the pennant when he was asked to fill in for Joe Adcock at first base during the regular season. Now he's doing his share in the series.

He came up three times and hit the ball sharply each time. First it was a single, then a homer, then a line drive that Turley caught in self-protection. Maybe it's a good thing that Covington hit into that ninth inning double play and kept Torre from coming to bat again.

And how about Hank Aaron's homer? It was one of the hardest-hit drives I've ever seen.

So, it's Don Larsen against Lew Burdette in the seventh game. Right there the Yanks have a slight edge. Larsen will be working with four full days' rest; Burdette with only two.

However, there was no other solution for Fred Haney, the Braves' manager. Warren Spahn, Haney's only other possibility, is ailing and Burdette has been his best pitcher.

Pride, Yanks Rule Favorites In Final Game Of Classic

game, and, dramatically, each side grasped for perfection in its fervent desire to wind up this hectic, historical playoff on a successful note.

Fittingly, it was to be Don Larsen, the perfect man of the 1956 series, pitching for the Yankees against Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, the perfect man of this year's series. And who could ask for anything more?

Certainly not the more than 60,000 fans at Yankee Stadium who were to "be there" for the tension-loaded climax.

Batters Favored
Fair weather and comfortable temperatures were predicted by Weatherman and the Yankees were listed as 13-to-10 favorites to win their 16th world title.

The Bombers were favored because they were home, because of their magic-touch history and because they proved yesterday they haven't given up their habit of winning the big ones.

A four-hitter by Bob Turley, a two-run homer by Yogi Berra and a game-deciding four-bagger by Hank Aaron in the seventh inning out-distanced prodigious home runs by Hank Aaron and Frank Torre as the incredible Bombers beat the Braves, 3 to 2, to even the series at three wins apiece.

It meant that the supposedly dead Yankees were still in business, and in the devoted, ever-loving, ever-hoping residents of Milwaukee, it meant another day of wait and prayer for the first world title ever to be brought home to the land of cheese and beer.

It was appropriate, then, that Burdette was chosen to head their mission in the finale. The tall, right-handed sinker-ball artist had conquered the lordly Yankees twice in this crusade.

Larsen Stands In Way
He beat the Bombers, a team that once owned his contract, 4 to 2, in the second game and then shut them out, 1 to 0, in the fifth game, allowing seven hits each time. If he could do it one more time—working with only two days rest—Burdette would become the first man to win three series games in one spectacular since Harry Brecheen of the Cardinals one-man-ganged the Boston Red Sox in 1916.

Standing in his way was Larsen, the big fellow who carved himself a huge chunk of baseball immortality last fall with his perfect, no-hit, no-run game against the Dodgers. The no-windup right-hander was the winning pitcher in this year's third game, won by the Yankees 12 to 3. Larsen coasted home in this home runaway, with a 7½-inning relief chore after replacing Turley.

New York's Mickey Mantle and Milwaukee's Red Schoendienst were to be among the missing when managers Casey Stengel and Fred Haney posted their starting lineups. Mantle's injured right shoulder and Schoendienst's pulled groin muscle figured to make these key operatives spectators again when the final shooting began.

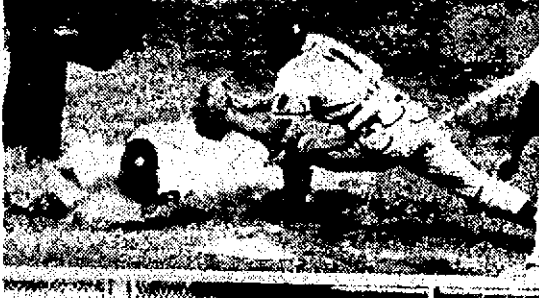

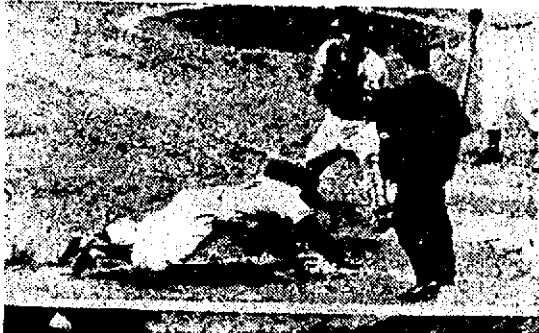

Spahn Probably Out
Stengel figured to juggle his lineup for the seventh straight time and on the eve of battle was still pondering the "who's on first" proposition.

Haney nursed the slim hope that he might be able to call on his gripped-weakened left-hander, Warren Spahn, if Burdette faltered. But the doctor gave a discouraging report on the availability of the redoubtable south-paw.

The third straight seven-game series was set up by yesterday's breath-taking thriller in which 404 fans saw the Yankees strike back in their old, familiar pattern.

Turley, a failure in the third contest, pitched the game of his life, striking out eight and walking only two men.

Yankees In Seven-Game Set Third Time In Row

By JOHN BARRINGTON
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK (INS)—Seven-game World Series have become a habit with the modern Yankees, unlike some of the predecessors who made it a practice to humiliate the National League champions in four straight.

This is the third time in succession the Yanks have had to go the legal limit in order to decide a championship in which they were involved. It is only the sixth time it has happened in their 23 World Series.

Altogether, 14 previous World Series have gone the full distance, of the 49 that have been contested, on a best-of-seven basis. In past years, the National League has won eight of those sudden-death affairs, the American six.

After the bedlam in Milwaukee yesterday's game seemed to be taking place in a comparative vacuum. It was the usual quiet, decorous Stadium crowd—except for the top of the fourth inning when a sympathizer with the Cuban rebel cause pitched a bunch of pro-Castro handbills over the railing of the upper stands.

They fluttered to earth near third base, and Yankee coach Frank Crosetti helped the ground more bills than anyone else, too, with the old fluid motion he used to field ground balls in his playing days.

Gil McDougald played the sixth game with a "touch of flu" which affected his hearing. . . He said his wife and baby were quite ill. . . Yogi Berra, harboring a barking cough, observed that the Yankees had taken four shots but they didn't seem to do much good.

If the Series isn't over soon, both sides may run out of athletes.

Ninth inning, you trail by a run with nobody out, a man on first, the majors' leading home run hitter at bat and a couple of hot hitters following. What would you do?

The Braves had Hank Aaron hitting away instead of bunting yesterday. Bob Turley threw him three strikes, the last a sinker that he took with bat on shoulder.

VMI Bidding For Title With Star Backfield

By The Associated Press

VMI's Keydets are threatening to make a major bid for Southern Conference football honors this year largely on the strength of a four-star backfield that for speed and balance is unequaled in the league.

The Keydets will go into their conference battle against Davidson at Lexington Saturday with all four of their starting backs averaging at least 4½ yards per carry.

The VMI passing game, geared to the throwing of last year's No. 1 conference passer, Duke Johnston, has been little in evidence this season—principally because the Keydets don't seem to need the weapon. Their running attack has been that good.

Also Excel On Defense

The "big four" of the VMI backfield is made up of fullback Sam Woolwine, with 179 yards and a handsome 6.9-yard average per carry; halfback Pete Johnson, with 149 yards and a 5.1-yard average; halfback Bobby Jordan, 164 yards and an average of 4.8; and quarterback Johnston, who's run for 108 yards and an average of 4.5 yards.

The Keydet foursome also excel on defense, particularly against passing, and chances are they'll have their job cut out for them Saturday when Davidson comes to town with the conference's No. 2 passer—Charlie Benson.

Yesterday, in their final contact drill for the game, the Keydets put most of the emphasis on pass defense once again.

WYU Workout Rough
At Davidson, too, defense drew attention as the Wildcats sought an answer to the razzle-dazzle VMI attack.

West Virginia, preparing for Boston University, had its toughest workout of the season with the major emphasis on tackling—a sore spot in last week's loss to Wisconsin. Pass offense and defense also were stressed.

Flu still handicapped quarterback Ray Looney as George Washington began tapering off for its Friday night skirmish with the Air Force Academy. Halfback Charlie Sidwell, in bed with the flu Tuesday, returned to William & Mary's practice but tackle Elliott Schauback and center Gray Lynn were too weak to participate because of bouts with the flu.

Freshman tackle Joe Moss was moved up to the varsity at Virginia Tech, where Coach Frank Moseley still is seeking to remedy a depth problem in the interior line.

Manhattan, Dayton Open Holiday Event
NEW YORK (INS)—Manhattan College, defending champion, will play Dayton in the opening quarter-final of the Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Pittsburgh—meets Temple in the second game of the double-header Dec. 26 and the evening schedule, announced today, pairs California and NYU after Seattle meets Connecticut.

Yankees' Simpson Forlorn Figure On Eve Of Last Day

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Probably the most forlorn figure on the New York Yankees as they went into the seventh and final world series game with the Milwaukee Braves today was first baseman Harry (Suitcase) Simpson who has gone 12 for 1 in the series.

"I'm just over-anxious," Simpson explained. "I've been trying too hard. I guess I've heard some of the booing and I sort of expected it. Billy Martin was a big favorite in this town and when I came here as part of his trade to Kansas City, some of the fans probably resented me. I'll just keep swinging if I get another chance."

Stengel is astonished at the performance of Brave leftfielder Wes Covington, who is supposed to be sadly lacking in many departments.

"All I got to say," barked the professor, "is he certainly isn't hindering them. First, he's a hitter then he's a fielder, and now he's a thrower."

He tossed Yogi Berra out at the plate in yesterday's game.

Braves' manager Fred Haney had his brother as his guest. "He's eight years older than I," laughed Haney. "But I know I seem older. You can't blame me, though. Anyone would look old after having managed the Braves and Pirates."

Don Larsen, the Yank starter in the deciding game, said he often thought of his perfect game against the ex-Brooklyn Dodgers in last year's series.

"But I don't think it will happen again," he said. "I'll be too taken up with the job at hand."

Whitey Ford who would have started today's game for the Yanks, had he not warmed up for two innings yesterday, appeared slightly disappointed that Larsen was getting the assignment.

"I'm ready," he said. "Why not Larsen?" challenged Yank manager Casey Stengel. "He's had four days rest and he pitched a no-hitter last year. Maybe he'll repeat."

In Larsen, the Braves will get their second dose of a "no wind-up" pitcher in two days. Bob Turley, who beat them yesterday, doesn't wind up, either.

Here are some of their observations:
Wes Covington: "I think a wind-up is a great asset to a pitcher. If the no wind-up business was any good, all the top pitchers would adopt it."

Hank Aaron: "It's a little difficult to follow. You've got to be ready."

Logan summed up the Braves' attitude on the Yanks' pitching: "It's a little better than they're given credit for."

Moose Skowron, Yank first baseman is miserable because he can't play with his bad back.

"But I think I could pinch hit," he said. "I couldn't run, though. Well, then, just hit home runs and you'll only have to trot," laughed Joe Collins.

Braves' starter Lew Burdette is a cool cookie. Asked if he were going to try and win the finale,

Huskies Blank Southern For 11th Straight

Northern High School's Huskies turned a spirited Garrett County neighborhood football rivalry into a virtual tea party when they blanked the Highlanders of Southern on a 33-0 score yesterday at Oakland. The triumph was the 11th in a row for coach Denver Mitchell's team.

Darwin Rabeson, Northern's flashy quarterback, scored three of the Huskies' five touchdowns, his first coming on a 52-yard gallop four plays after the game began. He tallied again on a 15-yard keeper run and capped a brilliant afternoon by sweeping around end from ten yards out for his third TD. In addition, he fired a 31-yard scoring pass to Dick Spear.

The Huskies broke the scoring ice two plays after kicking off to open the game. On the second running play Spear tackled a Southern back behind his goal for a safety.

Intercepted passes set up two Northern scoring thrusts. Hun-berson snatched a Southern pass to give Rabeson a third scoring chance and Hugh Unbel picked off another Highlander aerial to set up the final Northern touchdown scored by Bill Ahler.

Northern, despite losing 103 yards in penalties, ground out 215 yards rushing to Southern's 35 and picked up 187 additional yards in the air to the home team's 3. The first downs were 7 to 3 in favor of the victors.

Touchdowns: Rabeson 3, Spear, Miller. Extra point: Miller (changed). Substitutes: Northern—Singer, Strauss, Yumier, Swanger, Hettick, Jenkins, Wright, Under, Southern—Michaels, McBride, Stemple, DeWitt. Officials: Gaffney, Snider, Diamond.

In order to advance Ed Mathews, who had walked, to second base, Back of Aaron in the lineup came Covington and Frank Torre, and Torre has two series homers.

Two Key LaSalle Players On Doubtful List For Keyser

Explorers Test Unbeaten Kings Tomorrow Night

Two key performers are on the doubtful list as LaSalle High School's Explorers make final preparations this afternoon for their big game tomorrow night at Fort Hill Stadium against the high-riding West Virginia Class A football champs from Keyser.

Coming to Cumberland with jackets won over Petersburg, the Keyser team, coached by 6-6 and the Vikings trained "Tank" Clark, will be the long-franklin, 13-6, as the Jackets look for a winning streak ever compiled like a good bet to keep their record an area schoolboy club in card clean.

In another PVC contest Friday have won 21 games in a row Ridgeley 11-4 will travel to Petersburg to meet the Vikings (2-2). Other area games Friday are: Roy Lester's Allegany team two seasons ago.

LaSalle has had two weeks to prepare for the big invasion, the Explorers having been idle since posting their initial victory at Berlin, Pa. Norm Geatz had hoped that quarterback Van Parsons and center Reggie Lennox would be fit for action tomorrow but the LaSalle coach reported this morning that both players are still hobbling around.

Maplehurst Golf Pairings Listed

Parsons suffered a recurrence to a summer foot injury in the dying moments of the 13-6 opener against Fort Hill and Lennox had his knee hurt the following game when the Explorers sustained a 27-0 setback at the hands of Delone High in McSherrystown, Pa.

Geatz said there is a possibility both will see action on a limited basis. "Parsons might be available for some offense play, but he definitely won't play defense," Geatz declared. The Explorer quarterback turned in a brilliant performance on both offense and defense in the Fort Hill game. Tommy Madden, who took over at the signal-calling Wilson, Bill Powers and Wayne post following Parsons' injury, Myers vs. Charles Pinto and will probably play the major portion of the game.

Mike Stichter will have the job of playing center when Lennox isn't in the lineup. Other than these two injuries, LaSalle will take the field in good physical shape. The Explorers' record is one win and two setbacks.

Win Five In Row
Keyser, on the other hand, has won five straight and has yielded only one touchdown, that to Charles Town in the opening game. The Tornado offense has accounted for 96 points.

Cumberland's other two teams won't see action until Saturday. Allegany meets South Hagerstown in a night game at the stadium and Fort Hill journeys to Winchester to meet Handley in an afternoon joust. Both are Cumberland Valley Athletic League encounters.

Fort Hill, Cumberland's perennial city champion, is again setting the local pace, Bill Hahn's Sentinels being undefeated in four games. They'll also be favored to take Handley, 13-0 conqueror of Alto.

In an important Potomac Valley Conference engagement tomorrow afternoon, Moorefield High's undefeated Yellowjackets will entertain the winless Franklin High Panthers.

Coach Jonathan Paugh's Jackets will be striving for their fifth consecutive victory and also have an unsullied goal line, having held four opponents scoreless to date.

Moorefield defeated Romney High 25-0, and Franklin lost 33-6 to the same Romney team. The 'DEAD AFTER 21'—LaSalle High co-captains, Charles (Char) James (left) and Van Parsons demonstrate what they'd like to do tomorrow when they play high-riding Keyser at Fort Hill Stadium. Leo Chiridon, a member of the SS, Peter and Paul Catholic Youth League team, is being dropped into a shallow grave by the co-captains. The youth wears "21" on the back of his jersey, representing the number of straight victories Keyser has scored, an area record. Other LaSalle and St. Peter players watch the burial proceedings with glee—and hope. The game will start at 8 p. m.

Miteff Upset In Short Time

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — A local boy made good in his first big and shortest fight — with probably the shortest punch of his career.

Mike DeJohn, 26, the baby brother to three former Syracuse boxers, zoomed into the big time boxing picture last night when he scored a sensational knockout of heavily favored Alex Miteff of Argentina after only 1:17 of the first round. DeJohn outweighed his South American opponent by a quarter-pound at 202½.

Heretofore a well-drilled preliminary batter, except for one main go, DeJohn sent the seventh-ranked heavyweight to the canvas with a short left hook to the chin.

From the early moments of the quickie, DeJohn followed the shorter Miteff around the ring, sending lefts for the head.

He caught him early, and, after a flurry of rights and lefts downed the Argentinian with a shattering left, flush to Miteff's right cheek.

Billy Brown, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, was quick to offer a rematch of the battle.

"If they'll go for it, I'd like them back here in November," Brown said.

Miteff, who had jumped to the ranking class of the unlimited division by virtue of 12 victories, no defeats and seven knockouts, said he would like to meet his conqueror again.

"I was surprised," the visitor said. "I thought the referee counted a little too fast, but everything was all right."

Daugherty Sees 'Big Day' For Kowalczyk

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Duffy Daugherty is positive that, one of these days before long, his son-in-law will have a real big day.

Although he ranks among the all-time great optimists of the game of football, Daugherty isn't predicting that the big halfback's "day" will arrive Saturday in Michigan's huge stadium, when the second-ranked Spartans clash with sixth-ranked Michigan before 101,001 spectators.

"You look at the guy this year and you know, sooner or later, he's gonna hurt some team a whole lot," said Daugherty. "He hasn't broken loose yet but he's running with that old fire and abandon. He'll shake loose one of these days."

Take it from Daugherty, same.

Kowalczyk's story is an unusual one. As a sophomore, the bruising 205-pounder carried the ball 82 times and gained 581 yards for a 7.1 average.

He gained 88 yards in 13 carries as State edged UCLA 17-14 in the Rose Bowl and was selected as the outstanding player in the 1956 New Year's Day classic.

An ankle injury suffered a year ago last spring restricted his football activity. He carried only 42 times last year and gained just 123 yards — a 3-yard average.

As one football writer commented: "I had just learned how to spell his name when suddenly there wasn't any occasion to use it."

In 23 years, West Point football coach Earl (Red) Blaik's teams have won 151 games, lost 46 and played 13 ties.

Improved Defense May Be Key To Irish Win Saturday

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — Nothing—news of man-made satellites or intercontinental missiles—can convince Subway Alumni that we're in a new era more than the Notre Dame-Army contest, the big one of the year so far, Saturday.

DU PONT ZEREX® ANTI-FREEZE

PERMANENT TYPE

WITH MR-8 KEEPS YOU

GUARANTEED* SAFE

AGAINST FREEZE-UPS, RUST-UPS ...AND IT WON'T ROT HOSE

HOW MR-8 PROTECTS YOUR CAR

Here's the complete all-around cooling system protection you get with "Zerex," the only permanent type anti-freeze containing MR-8, Du Pont's special chemical rust inhibitor.

1. Works in all waters

Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution. Hard water makes the inhibitors used in many anti-freezes precipitate out, materially reducing their protective qualities.

2. Will not rot rubber hose

"Zerex" with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hose, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season. Then the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.

So don't take chances this winter. See your dealer now and get the complete winter-long protection only "Zerex" with MR-8 gives. It's the premium, permanent type anti-freeze made and guaranteed by Du Pont... your best assurance of quality and satisfaction.

3. Neutralizes all acids

The seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when a permanent anti-freeze solution turns acid. However, "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from the corrosive action of cooling system acids.

4. Keeps rust in suspension

"Zerex" with MR-8 keeps the cooling systems of today's complex engines clean and free-flowing. Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

*DU PONT GUARANTEE

"Zerex" anti-freeze will protect the cooling system of your car from freezing, rust or corrosion for one full winter—and will not leak out—if used in a properly operating, watertight cooling system and if used according to Du Pont directions printed on the "Zerex" container.

Du Pont guarantees too, that "Zerex" will not boil away and can be used with either high- or low-opening thermostats, at high or low altitudes in extreme driving or weather conditions. "Zerex" will not harm rubber hoses, gaskets, pump packing, metal parts of the cooling system or car finish. "Zerex" mixes perfectly with water, flows freely and transfers heat efficiently.

Har-rumph; Um-kumf Hak-kaff! Notice how drafty the rooms are these chilly October mornings? Brisk, eh? Egad, Yes!

Hm! Oh, yes, about football. Veritably the life of a fore-caster is fraught with hazards! Imponderables, gentle readers! Take any given Saturday a gust of wind suddenly whips across the goal posts and there goes your extra point and victory. Or a halfback hears his sweet-heart's voice, runs over nine dead-end tacklers while 70,000 cheer. Again, a fullback's grandmother may be ailing and he forgets where the pigskin is.

Nonetheless, your correspondent has lost not one whit of his boldness and elan. He gives you three powerful upsets this week by the closest kind of scores — and watch for that gust of wind — Texas over Oklahoma, Illinois over Ohio State and Tulane over Georgia. Holy Cross-Marquette also will be a one-run ball game. Undeclared, undaunted, unruly and uncalled-for, Frank Fictio sends his Mighty Mysteria against Satellite Tech in a game that should produce a lot of stars. I'd like to go out on the limb and pick Tech but Fictio has a way of overcoming any obstacle, even a Satellite.

And there you have it, every game selected perfectly, that is, after, to be sure! On with the dice!

IN ALL-STATE BID—One of the top schoolboy football runners in the area is John Frye (above) of Petersburg High's Vikings. A junior, Frye is 5-7 and weighs 175 pounds. He is the leading ground-gainer in the Potomac Valley Conference with 466 yards in 73 carries. He has also tallied five touchdowns so far this season. John, who is bidding for a spot on West Virginia's Class A All-State team, will have a chance to add to his totals tomorrow when the Vikings meet Ridgeley at Petersburg.

Terps Shoot For First Win On Saturday

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Two of the Atlantic Coast Conference's poor football relations, Maryland and Wake Forest, try to pick up their first 1957 victory at the other's expense tomorrow.

The game will be telecast (NBC 12:30 p. m. EST) on 20 stations from Baltimore to Miami.

It will show two teams which each was able to win only two games last season and none so far in 1957. Maryland has been beaten three times and Wake Forest twice.

For that reason, Coach Tommy Mont is looking forward for a change with a greater degree of confidence to the Wake Forest game. Two of Maryland's defeats were administered by top ranking Duke and Texas A & M and the other by likewise undefeated North Carolina State.

Wake Forest's losses have been to Florida and Virginia. The Maryland squad has been primed to look out for the running of quarterback Jim Dalrymple, fullback Neil MacLean and halfback Pete Barham.

"Wake Forest hasn't much depth or size, but it has overall speed," reported Maryland scout Johnny Idzik. "It has a young, hustling ball club which never gives up."

Maryland also lacks depth, mostly because of a series of injuries which forces Mont to play four sophomores on his first team. So far, the offense has been on the weak side while the defense was exceptionally good against Texas A & M and Duke.

Neither Maryland nor Wake Forest has shown a passing attack worthy of the name. Wake Forest has tried 10 and completed one. Maryland has thrown 36 and completed 13.

Maryland has netted only 290 yards rushing the ball in its three games while Wake Forest made 312 in two.

Influenza Hits At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Terry Brennan says his flu-ridden Notre Dame football team is in poor physical shape for Saturday's game with tough Army in Philadelphia.

Six of his regulars and two second-stringers were sidelined by the flu bug yesterday. "We are hurt, hurt badly," Brennan said after the squad walked through no-contact drills. "There is no likelihood that we will be in top shape for Army although all of the men who are down with the flu now probably will make the trip."

He named the flu victims as co-captain Ed Sullivan, halfback Dick Lynch, guard Jim Schaefer, end Gary Myers, fullback Nick Pietrosante and center Bob Scholtz—all starters—and No. 2 guards Dave Hurd and Bob Gaydos.

The outlook was different in Army's camp. Coach Earl Blaik and his staff — currently guiding the top-rated team in the East — apparently feel confident.

Burdette Given Chance To Make History

By BILL CORUM
NEW YORK—(INS)—Low Burdette has a chance to make modern baseball history in the Yankee Stadium this afternoon.

But the Nitro, W. Va., right-hander, big, tough and courageous though he is, has a tough row to hoe before he can join a group of only a half-dozen pitching immortals who have won three games in one World Series.

Not since 1920, when big Stan Cavieskie, the pitching Pole, did it against the Brooklyn Dodgers that used to be, has any pitcher won three series games as a starter.

Little Harry (The Cat) Broche of the Cardinals pulled this pitching bit trick against the Boston Red Sox in '46. But he got credit for his third game after coming in as a reliever in the seventh inning.

Burdette, pitching star of the current series that has swung from terrible on occasion to terrific at other times has both the physical and mental equipment to become the seventh man on this exclusive list.

But the Yankees smell the money of another championship again and the see-saw of this give-and-take series see them on top again after Bob Turley's brilliant victory of yesterday.

Something of a sleeper in the minds of both the Braves and the Yankees in the series, Low has been a hero for the former and a nemesis to Stengel's stout-hearted men, but there is no escaping that the cards will be stacked against him this afternoon.

He will be opposed by Don Larsen, the perfect game pitcher of last fall's series with the Dodgers, and he's had only two days rest.

It isn't likely that Fred

Haney would be starting Burdette if Warren Spahn hadn't come up with a touch of grippe.

From the outset, Haney had counted on starting his veteran southpaw three times if the series went seven games. But while "Spahn" is expected to be in the bullpen this afternoon back of Burdette, Fred obviously figured that his third pitcher in expected potential when the series began is now his best.

Which is true because certain pitchers have the sort of stuff that bothers certain teams and Burdette's low ball sliders, sinkers, screwballs, call 'em as you like, and on occasion even a knuckler, are not exactly what longball hitters detest.

This doesn't mean at all that they may not fall on such a pitcher and knock him lespided now and then, as the Yanks may do to Low today. It only means that on average, such a pitcher figures to do best against sluggers.

Nobody can, or could, explain why a normally first class veteran pitcher such as Bob Buhl

Bold Ruler Snaps 51-Year-Old Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—There may be some question about Bold Ruler's ability over a distance of ground but when it comes to a mile or less there are few who can match the blazing speed of the Wheatley Stable 3-year-old.

The son of Nasrullah, badly beaten at distances of a mile and one-quarter and up after winning the Preakness in May, proved again yesterday that he is a speed horse of no mean ability when he smashed a 51-year-old track record at Belmont Park.

Bold Ruler, carrying 130 pounds and conceding weight to seven rivals and age to six, stepped off the seven furlongs of the Voshburgh Handicap in 1:21 2-5 over a sloppy track. The clocking clipped three-fifths of a second off Belmont's oldest record established by Ruseben under 126 pounds on Oct. 16, 1906.

With Eddie Arcara handling the reins, the Ruler finished nine lengths in front of Tick Tock and earned $16,000 to run his total winnings to $42,525.

Yanks Rule

gun in Mantle's absence, hit a two-run homer off Bob Buhl in the third inning to give the Yanks a 2-to-0 lead. It was Yogi's 10th homer in series play. He also collected a single and double as part of New York's seven hit output.

Bauer Ties Record
—Bauer, who tied a series record by hitting in his 13th straight game, lined a homer off the screen attached to the left-field foul pole in the seventh. The wallop came off relief-loser Ernie Johnson and it broke a 2-2 tie the Braves achieved via a fifth-inning homer by Torre and a puke into the left-field bullpen in the seventh by Aaron which was the third series homer by the major league king.

Yesterday was but a memory. The story was to be told today. It was the Yankees, the defending champs and winners of 17 world crowns—six out of seven under the astute Stengel—against the Braves, winners of the big prize in 1914 when they came from Boston and eager to bring it to their new home in Milwaukee for the first time. A non-New York team hasn't won it since Cleveland in 1948. The Indians beat the Boston Braves that year.

Rangers To Count On Wingman Andy Bathgate

NEW YORK—(AP)—Andy Bathgate, fourth top scorer in the National Hockey League last season, is being counted on heavily by the New York Rangers this season.

The 25-year-old wingman set a new Ranger scoring record when he made 27 goals and 50 assists for 77 points. Only Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay and Jean Beliveau topped Bathgate in scoring last season.

This Golfer Really Shoots Near His Age

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Rare indeed is the golfer over 80 who shoots his age, but Fred Findlay of Charlottesville does it often.

Findlay, noted golf course designer, recently posted an 84 and an 85. He is nearing his 86th birthday and frequently plays the Farmington course which he designed.

In 19 seasons as football coach at Alfred University, Coach Alex Yunevich's teams have won 93 games, lost 37 and tied 6. Alex formerly played for Purdue.

Hunting Season In West Virginia Opens Tomorrow

MOOREFIELD — The official hunting season opens up in West Virginia tomorrow, according to the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

Squirrels (black, gray, albino and fox), grouse (native pheasant) and wild turkey will become legal game across the state. The season lasts through January 4, 1958.

How hunting for buck deer becomes legal for archers tomorrow. The special season lasts through the summer deer season which begins December 2 and ends December 7. Gun laws and regulations apply to the hunting of deer with bow and arrows.

Only deer having one or both antlers three inches or more in length above the hair shall be legal game during the 1957 season.

Accidents Expected
The special deer season for archers is statewide, except in the following counties or parts of counties which shall be closed:

Boone, Cabell, Fayette, that part of Kanawha and Putnam south of U. S. Route 60, Lincoln, Mingo, that part of Raleigh to the west of State Route 16, and Wayne, and those areas aside as "Controlled Public Shooting Areas."

Four migratory game birds become legal game tomorrow. They are the woodcock, rails and gallinules and the mourning dove.

About half of the accidents expected during the upcoming hunting season will involve squirrel hunters, the commission said.

The commission predicted there would be about 100 accidents and 15 deaths during the season. Last year, records show that 14 hunters died during the season, four from heart attacks. Of the 91 hunters killed or wounded in the 1956-57 season, 43 were squirrel hunters.

Stations Listed

Law Enforcement Chief Arthur C. Bachman said, "Annually, from one-third to one-half of our accidents involve squirrel hunters and nearly one-half of these occur during the first two weeks of the season."

Again this year, the commission has set up turkey checking stations throughout the area open to wild turkey hunting. Successful hunters are required by law to make a report, in writing, to the Director of Conservation or to local conservation officers within ten days of the date of kill.

Hunters are urged to check their turkeys at one of the stations listed below, where it will be aged, sexed and weighed. This will supply the research division with needed information and reports of the hunter of the responsibility of reporting the kill in writing.

See's Lasso Station, Wardensville; Crider's Service Station, Fabius; Raymond Bean's Service Station, Mathias; Lost River Post Office; Baker Post Office and Bill's Sport Shop, Moorefield.

Women To Serve On Mineral Jury For First Time

KEYSER — For the first time in Mineral County history, women will serve on the jury at the October term of Circuit Court when it opens here Tuesday.

Furthermore, the list of the grand jurors released yesterday by Circuit Clerk James A. Dixon reveals that half of the 14 summoned for grand jury duty are women. They and jury made up of 16 persons, but two of those summoned for the October term have been excused because they have moved out of the state since their names were put in the jury box. Two names to complete the roster of 16 will be pulled from the box on the opening day of court.

The petit jury list will also include the names of several women, the clerk's office said. But their names will not be released until they have been served summons to appear for jury duty.

Women were made eligible for jury duty in West Virginia at the 1956 session of the Legislature following the adoption of a constitutional amendment. Although other judicial districts in the state have had women jurors prior to now, Judge Ernest A. See steadfastly refused to include women in the jury list until certain clarifying legislation was adopted by the Legislature, which was done at the 1957 session.

Women who have been summoned to serve on the grand jury at the coming term of court are: Julia Sims and Ruth Malone, New Creek District; Helen Spencer and Margaret Umstot, Frankfort; Catherine Carskaddon, Cabin Run; and Sarah Homan and Cornelia Bonar, Welton.

Male members of the grand jury are Earl K. Hess, N. Edward Taylor and John Stanhagen, New Creek District; Frank Fike and C. J. Jeffries, Piedmont; Frank Burgess, Elk and Ernest Kimple, Cabin Run.

Soil Judging Contest Won By Area FFA

FLINTSTONE — A Future Farmers of America land judging team from Flintstone High School defeated both of the Garrett County high school teams in a regional contest at Southern High School near Oakland as part of the Maryland Land Week observance.

The Flintstone team compiled a score of 809 out of a possible 1,200, while the Garrett team had 787 and the Maryland team had 787.

Each of the three schools had two boys on its soil judging team, but the scores of the four best judges from each school were compared for team scores.

Harold McCusker and Richard Hefe, both of Flintstone, finished one-two in the regional competition. Others among the top ten were Ray Schlossnagle, Northern, third; Hay Beltel, Northern, fourth; Gayle Beckman, Southern, sixth; Richard Shafer, Flintstone, seventh; Elmer Lee, Northern, eighth; David Beachy, Northern, ninth, and Donald Weicht, Flintstone, tenth.

Paul Galbreath of the soils department at the University of Maryland served as official judge. Teachers who directed the FFA boys included George Lipscomb and Richard Bishoff, both of Southern High School and Kenneth Malone, Flintstone High School.

The Flintstone team of McCusker, Hefe, Shafer and Weicht, with William Baker as alternate, will represent the region in the state soil judging contest at the University of Maryland.

Beryl Minus Water After Train Mishap

LUKE — What appeared to be a comparatively minor train accident at the rear of the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company Tuesday proved an inconvenience to the 800 residents of Beryl, W. Va.

A lone box car loaded with pulpwood left the tracks on a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad siding, fell some 20 feet into a gully and broke between 40 and 50 feet of a four-inch water line.

This service line carries the Beryl water supply from the paper mill's filtration plant to the West Virginia community.

The box car was badly damaged and some cross ties were torn up.

John Price, president of the Beryl Water Company, Inc., said all of the 100 customers were without water as a result of the break in the line.

Railroad spokesmen were unable to establish a cause for the accident.

Council Votes Disposal Of $200,000 Water Bonds

WESTERNPORT — The town will destroy its $200,000 water bonds which were issued 30 years ago and now have been paid off at the rate of $3,000 per year. The final $110,000 was paid last year when the $374,000 in bonds were sold to build the town's filtration plant on Westernport Hill, and the water storage tank on Phillos Avenue, adjacent to the new Bruce High School.

James P. Rogers, Baltimore certified public accountant who audited the town's books, authorized the disposal of the canceled bonds.

Rogers was ordered paid $500 for his services at the meeting of Mayor Rokeby E. Michael and Commissioners last evening. The reason for the increase in his bill, Rogers stated, was that it entailed two additional weeks of work, hotel and traveling expenses.

Mayor Michael reported that parking meters for the week amounted to $85.52.

Lester Chaney conferred with the council relative to the building code. He is planning to build a home and garage on Roosevelt Street.

The commissioners will meet with L. C. Lambert concerning elevation of the curb at Church of the Brethren on Oak View tomorrow at 8 p. m. They will also discuss elevation for curbing in front of his property on Wood Street Extended.

Theatre Attempted Musical Version Of "... Being Earnest"

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — "The Importance Of Being Earnest" is a very special, highly stylized British farce which takes a most delicately mannered mood of polite burlesque to keep it bubble.

It was performed with a smartly effervescent impact some seasons ago by Maurice Evans.

Last night the U.S. Steel Theatre attempted a slick, musical version and never came close to Oscar Wilde's intentions. Certainly it went miles wide of the perceptive mark set by Evans, who realized the necessity of turning it into a stylized romp through a theatrical museum piece, much as "Charley's Aunt" takes a brilliantly hokey party mood to bring it off.

The Steel Hour gave it the tensile strength of the sponsor's weightier product rather than the delicacy of Wedgwood.

It also had to be crammed into some 55 minutes, necessitating a great deal of pure literary amputation, and then a full musical was added, which reduced any possible chance to create or retain mood or style.

On top of the foregoing, its stars were literal, preliminary types.

It was basically a case of piling too much into the limitations of a TV hour. So, in the end, the too much wasn't good enough, quantity defeating quality.

Kraft Theatre's script had a ridiculous basic problem — Skip Hamner was tortured to drive a laundry truck, which seemed to him worse than prison.

Patti Page's "Big Record" introduction is too long and cute. NBC-TV was very much on its topical toes in telecasting President Eisenhower's full featured news conference right after yesterday's series game.

Wayne Train had a good, goody, old-fashioned melodramatic about a fallen woman rising to dramatic purity, acted well, even in the face of some frightfully hammy lines.

Shelley Winters played it as if Oscar-bound, meaning she's a pro.

Ward Bond always seems a mountain of a man — strong, homespun, wise and roughly capable.

do tire easily and need much rest, both day and night.

He didn't want to go to school — I think for fear I'd get sick.

Also he was afraid of burglars and kidnappers. Last winter he developed a cough and we still must restrict his activities to conserve his strength — though now I let him run around more, al-with a worrier temperament — i.e. that he is exceptionally responsive to nuances, imaginative, perceptive, sharply intelligent. There are such children, you know; who are fated to suffer excruciating fears in formative years, if their parents aren't "alive" to their special needs of never-fading warm sympathy.

most as if he were 100 percent reassurance, and an open door to his parents' hearts, when we fear he's returning? Because he's a risk taker, therefore more vulnerable? And I tell him burglars go only to rich people; but he reads the papers and knows it isn't always true. I try to be very selective about TV shows, but when he's high, he's high.

Mother Needs Re-education

Since Donny's neurotic symptoms broke out after his younger brother's advent, it seems likely consider his parents failed indeed to consider him generously, in that crisis of readjustment. It seemed that you made a big bid for it, tentation at the time—emphasizing my fatigue, needs of rest, etc. And also made a painfully undiplomatic fuss over the baby.

From His Mother

DEAR B.R.: Donny's anxiety symptoms indicate that he feels cut off from his parents; specifically, from his mother. He feels outside the center of family life, love, etc. He feels excluded from the axis of his parents' preferred interests — his mother's.

a. Thus he feels threatened by all the sorts of spooky and menacing possibilities — as if “one alone have in a frightening world of his imagination. He fancies himself forsaken, pushed aside or barely tolerated by the VIPs of his world, namely, mama and papa. His solar plexus — the “seat of emotions" — is tense with dread with a family relations expert in your locality. — M. H.

Ladies' With Mean Pinch

MASQUERADE PARTY—Defectives D. R. Duling and F. G. Clark, Jr., and Patrolman A. B. Cole, III, of Richmond, Va., police department, pose (top) as their fellow officers know them and (below) in two of their crime-stopping disguises.

RICHMOND, Va. (NEA)—
When conventional crooks

For what purse-snatcher is going to suspect that a nice gray-haired lady is toting a badge and ing tactics need a boost in Richmond, Police Chief O. D. Garner sounds the alarm for a mass-querade party.

And next thing you know, a trio of well-muscled ladies are patrolling the streets to break up a wave of purse snatching. Or three seedy-looking tramps start loitering on a downtown corner snout-nosed . . . 387 What shoplifter is going to pay any attention to tramps?

Current stunts in Chief Garner's marguerade are Detectives L.
R. Duling and F. G. Clark, Jr., and Patrolman A. J. Cole. And they're so fellow officers even baffle their good eyes.

Once, while in his role as tramp, Duling was nicked on the and begin catching shoplifters off-guard.
